Service Manager Test Cases

Semen Cirit

September 11, 2009

1. Try to open service manager from user settings

2. Try to open service manager from Kmenu.
   Note: The below operations can be observed with this command line
   Execute the following command:

   ```
   $ service list
   ```

   Observe whether the selected service has made the desirable option.

3. Try to search a service.
   Executing the above command, observe that the searched service is exist.

4. Choose a stopped service and try to start it.
   Executing the above command, observe that the selected service removed.

5. Choose a started service and try to stop it.
   Executing the above command, observe that the selected service started.

6. Choose a service and try to reload it.
   Executing the above command, observe that the selected service restarted.

7. Choose a service and try to put it to autostart.
   Executing the above command, observe that the selected service is in autostart.